Rabbit Road bridge fast-tracked to voters

By MICHAEL DANIELS
If all goes as planned, Bethel voters will be asked on Nov. 7 if they wish to pay for repairing or replacing the Rabbit Road bridge over the Alder River.

But yet to be determined is just how the bridge would be repaired, or, if replaced, with what, and how much the ultimate fix might cost.

For the moment the bridge remains posted to loads over three tons, on the recommendation of the Maine Department of Transportation.

MDOT has also said that if the bridge is not repaired, or replaced, "it should be closed to protect life and property of the public."

That bleak assessment is based on a recent state inspection, which found three of the bridge's nine steel beams to be dangerously corroded.

On Monday selectmen voted to post the bridge, and they instructed Town Manager Scott Cole to solicit bids for repairing or replacing it.

Cole promised to "fast track" the process, in the hope that the bridge could be repaired or fully replaced before deep winter.

He told the board that the cost of doing so might be in the range of $25,000 to $75,000 — based on very preliminary conversations with people fa-

G'wood planners hold on to permit authority

By MICHAEL DANIELS
At a special Town Meeting Tuesday about two dozen Greenwood voters unanimously approved a new Site Plan Review Ordinance for the town, and amendments to the town's Subdivision Ordinance.

They split, however, on an amendment to the town's Land Use Ordinance, defeating it 13-9.

The amendment in question would have given the town code enforcement officer the authority to approve building permits in non-shoreland zoning areas.

The authority currently rests with the town Planning Board, a majority of whose members opposed the change.

Supporters argued that the change would speed up the permitting process in areas where most decisions are governed by a simple checklist.

And, they said, it would free up time for the Planning Board to work on more important matters, such as developing an ordinance to protect the town's ridgelines.

Opponents countered that applications get a fairer and more thorough review when they are dealt with by five peo-

Gould settles lawsuit that followed expulsion

By MICHAEL DANIELS
Gould Academy has agreed to pay $14,500 to a Farmington couple whose 15-year-old son was expelled from the prep school for striking a roommate with a skateboard in November 2004.

The couple, Thomas and Kathy Formella, had sued the school for $25,700 in tuition, which Gould refused to refund following the expulsion.

They claimed the student Erik hit had been bullying him since he arrived on campus two months prior to the incident, and Gould staff had "negligently failed to protect him, causing him emotional distress."

According to an affidavit filed by his father, "Erik acted only in self defense, and under extreme compulsion."

The terms of the settlement prohibit the parties in the case from commenting on it, but in their initial filing, the Formellas provided the following version of events leading up to the expulsion.

Training in smoke-filled rooms

Area fire departments from Northern Oxford Mutual Aid (NOMA) gathered last Wednesday at the BIG Adventure Center in Bethel to practice fire-fighting skills in the 7,400-square-foot laser tag arena. BIG generated "fog" to simulate a smoke-filled building. The firefighters practiced search and rescue for five different "victims," lost firefighters, and firefighters down. Above, Bethel Assistant Chief Mike Jodrey, with a flashlight under his arm, makes his way through the smoky darkness; right, an Andover firefighter, in black, and a Newry firefighter enter the dark arena on their knees, pulling a firehose. The Gilead and Greenwood departments, as well as Bethel Rescue, also participated. More photos, page 10.

'Rem' is a ski Hall of Famer

By ALISON ALOISIO
Bob Remington, who has devoted much of his life to the sport of skiing, will be inducted into the Maine Ski Hall of Fame Friday evening.

Known as "Rem" to the many people he has taught at Telstar High School and/or coached in three sports over the years, Remington will be one of 10 members in the hall's Class of 2005.

In a ceremony at Lost Valley Ski Area in Auburn, the inductees will be honored for their contributions to Maine skiing. Among the group are former Olympians, coaches, and pioneers in the Ski Patrol organization.

Improvised skis

Remington grew up cross-country skiing and jumping in Bethel. He and his two brothers got their start on a small hill across the street from their house. His father, Clarence — a competitive skier in his own right — built a small jump for them.

For skis, "My dad scraped up what he could," Remington said. To make the jumping skis safer, Clarence fashioned a metal toe piece that allowed the foot to pull out when the skier fell. "It was the first pair of release bindings," Remington said.

The inventing didn't stop there. "We took apart a barrel and put old bindings on the staves," he said. "They were like freestyle skis. You could do 360-degree turns on them."

Remington got his first pair of new skis when he started skiing for Gould Academy in Friday's induction will be the third in the short history of the Maine Ski Hall of Fame.

Such recognition for skiers has been long overdue, according to Dave Irons, chairman of the selection committee.

High school playoffs underway

By ALISON ALOISIO
The top-ranked Telstar High School field hockey team was scheduled to host eighth-ranked Old Orchard Beach yesterday (Wednesday) in a quarterfinal Western Class C playoff matchup.

The defending State Class C Champions finished the regular season with a 13-1 record.

Golfers win MVCs

Another defending Class C state champion, the Telstar High School golf team, was scheduled to return to the state championship game yesterday (Wednesday). The Rebels have already won the Mountain Valley Conference Championship, defeating Mountain Valley High School for the title.

Soccer, cross-country
On Saturday, the fifth-ranked Rebel soccer team will travel to take on fourth-ranked North Yarmouth Academy in a Western Class C quarterfinal game (1 p.m.). Telstar finished the regular season with a 10-4 record.

The Telstar girls' cross-country team placed well in last Saturday's Mountain Valley Conference Championships in Augusta.

The Rebel runners came in second behind Monmouth. Seven teams scored in the event.

Telstar runners Jen DeNor-mandie and Brienne Bailey finished second and fourth individually.

The Rebels will next compete in the Class C Regional Championships this weekend in Cumberland.

GET-RICH-QUICK SHRUB SCHEME

To the Editor:

This valley that I call home has been invaded by a noxious weed. They spring up full grown overnight. Single or double stemmed and seemingly espaliered to the woods and fields that surround them. They have sprouted everywhere.

I called the Extension Service to see what I could do about this annoying little shrub and was told that because it has no roots it wasn't covered by their department.

The poor lady must have thought I was insane when I started babbling about the fruit that it was going to produce and how once that was done we would never get rid of it.

I asked one neighbor why he had planted a green and white variegated one beside his driveway. He told me it was the latest cash crop and he wanted to get in on the money to be made before the market went belly up.

I asked him if he didn't think berries or apple trees might be a better choice. At least the fruit from those was edible and would not have quite the environmental impact that this shrub was going to have.

How about llamas, ostriches? Maybe boar goats? Too much work I was told, so much easier to plant one of these little shrubs and let it bear fruit.

The companies that sell them to you do all the work. They do the advertising and all the paperwork involved. They'll even come out and plant it for you.

How much did he think he was going to make, I asked.

Oh I should be able to retire in comfort. Travel a little and see the world. You know that kind of thing. Once this little shrub takes hold you can plant the fruit one to an acre. Just think of the money rolling in.

I tried and I tried but I just couldn't see past all the fruit that would be rolling in and what impact it would have. Traffic, taxes — what would happen to the wildlife when this thing got a hold? This fruit was going to take over and drive all the native plants out.

This valley would become another victim of the get-rich-quick shrub scheme.

I was going to have nightmares just thinking about it.

After talking to several people who had planted these things I started looking at my options. There weren't many.

Option 1: I could buy stockade fencing. If I barricaded myself in maybe I could keep the fruit out.

Option 2: If you can't beat them join them.

Who knows, maybe if I planted one and it bore fruit I could move far away from here. Somewhere where they haven't heard about this cash crop yet.

If I am real careful I may be able to buy enough land so that when it does make it there I can just plant another one and retire.

Well I made that call, and they came and planted my shrub today. It's kind of a pretty little thing. A blue and white variegated, single stem variety. It looks kind of like this. "Land For Sale Call FL@lander realty 555-555."

'AGING WELL' CONFERENCE

To the Editor:

Western Mountains Senior College (WMSA) and SAD44 Adult Education are co-sponsoring our first community conference, "Aging Well," on Saturday, Oct. 29, at Crescent Park School, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The conference will help improve your chances for living a long, healthy and productive life and all ages are welcome to attend.

Our rules for "aging well" will be addressed in lively workshops and exhibits. They include: eating right, laughing often, moving your body, exercising your mind, connecting with others and your community, exploring your spirituality, and finding your passion.

We're hoping to fill the hall to capacity with interested persons who want to learn more about how to age gracefully and in good health.

As an incentive, names of all registrants will be entered in a drawing for several outstanding door prizes donated by friends from the business community. To date these include:

One night stay for two people at the Balsams Grand Resort Hotel, Dixville Notch, including lodging, all applicable meals and free use of all resort facilities.

Two adult all-day ski lift passes at Sunday River Ski Resort.

Two unlimited day tickets to Mt. Abram Family Resort, Greenwood.

Ski, Swim and Sauna Day Pass for Two at the Bethel Inn and Country Club.

One free eight-week T'ai Chi or Qi Gong class in an existing class or one free private or semi-private T'ai Chi or Qi Gong class presented by Betsey Foster, instructor.

The registration fee for the Aging Well Conference is $25 or $20 for WMSA members, and includes luncheon catered by Good Food Store, refreshment breaks and all conference materials. There is fixed seating and early registration is recommended. To register, obtain more information or inquire about limited scholarships, call the Adult Education Office at 824-2780.

STOP BY AND THANK NESTA AND DUTCH

To the Editor:

Bethel is fortunate to have so many people who dedicate themselves to the betterment of the community, in so many ways.

This coming Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 5 p.m., there will be a short reception at the town office to recognize a couple of these individuals: Nesta Littlefield, who served as the town's Finance Office for 28 years, and Dr. Harry "Dutch" Dresser, who served 12 years on the Board of Selectmen including eight years as its chairman.

If you have a few minutes this Wednesday afternoon, please stop by the town office around 5 and say "thanks" to Nesta and Dutch for jobs well done.

'GRATEFUL' IS UNDERSTATEMENT

To the Editor:

On Sunday, Oct. 10, at about 4 p.m., I broke my leg while descending Bald Pate Mountain. Considering the weather, location and terrain, this was an incredibly scary experience for me. Fortunately, I was hiking with two other individuals, one who went to get help, the other who got me into the shelter of a tent.

At around 2 a.m. the search and rescue team arrived. To say the least, I felt as if the cavalry had just arrived to save the day.

They proceeded to make sure that my vital signs were stable and prepared me for the long and dangerous haul down the mountain in a litter.

For the next six hours about 20 individuals, I was told, carried me down a steep and rocky trail, which crossed multiple streams that were flooded by rain.

To simply say that I am grateful for what they did for me would be a tremendous understatement.

To all those who assisted in the rescue: thank you for your incredible devotion and duty you displayed while performing your jobs. Thank you for risking your own being for a total stranger.

With tremendous thanks,

Michael Saal

HAUNTED HALLOWEEN WALK IN ANDOVER

To the Editor

Usually this is a quiet time of year for this small town; however, Andover will host its first ever Haunted Halloween Walk on Oct. 29, and things will live up to a just a bit.

On a dark, wooded path, located behind Andover Automotive on Main Street, haunting scenes and wanderers will make sure that every moment is a thriller for those passing through. Nobody will go home disappointed, whether you are 5 or 65.

We asked Halloween enthusiasts in our town to participate who, we knew, would deliver and make it a fantastic night out.

There will be plenty of screaming for everyone. Those involved are very excited and have lots of energy. They can't wait for it to start.

Walkers will park in front of Andover Automotive/ Andover Supply and purchase tickets under the lighted tent to enter. A short hayride will deliver walkers to the woods and everyone will be offered a ride back as well.

Tours begin at 6 p.m. A donation of $1 per walker for those 5 and older will benefit a school-sponsored trip to Europe for the girls with other Mt. Valley and Telstar students. Those 4 and under are free with a paying adult. Look for coupons in local businesses that offer "bring three and get in free!"

For more information, please call 392-4691 between 6 and 8 p.m.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE CREATIVE ECONOMY

To the Editor:

What a great front page the Bethel Citizen had this week.

All good news. How many newspapers can you pick up these days and find good news?

I loved the Betsey Foster story about Conni St. Pierre. I had the privilege to work with Ms. St. Pierre on the Bethel Summer Solstice Midsummer Festival last year and found her creativity and talent endless. In a recent live performance at Outlook Studio by her, she featured compositions by yes, Led Zeplin, heavy metal and punk rock on flute, keyboards and harp in addition to her original material.

I was also thrilled to read the story on Sharon Lyon whom I met at the Midsummer Festival. I know Sharon as a valuable asset in the healing arts community, so for a massage therapist to "think outside the box" and create a program like "Take 10" into the schools, truly is healing.

This community is full of others like St. Pierre and Lyon. A perfect example of how "a creative economy" is working here.

With gas prices on the rise I am inspired to quit driving to Portland and beyond and discover what else is in my own backyard.

Perhaps I'll finally have time to take that bellydancing class Karen Swanson wrote about a few months back.

I'll be offering workshops sponsored by the Creative Economy Education Initiative (CEEI) through SAD44 Adult and Community Education, in the New Year.

Until then, stay "tuned."

FAMILY AND COMMUNITY 5K

To the Editor:

The second annual Family and Community 5K is happening 10 a.m., Nov. 12, at Crescent Park School, sponsored by New Balance and Bethel Family Dentistry. This non-competitive event is a celebration of running/walking and community and is the culminating event for the Western Maine Girls on the Run program. The cost is $10, which allows us to offer the Girls on the Run program for as little as possible. Presently the program is being offered in five different elementary schools. There are wonderful raffle prizes that will be given out.

For more information or to get an entrance form, call 824-3459 or e-mail Goldberg@megalink.net.

miliar with such projects.

At the low end of the range, the deck of the bridge could be raised and the beams replaced.

At the high end, the present structure could be replaced with a concrete box culvert.

Replacing the bridge would not only address the structural problem, it could also allow the town to correct what local resident Dick Littlefield sees as other problems with the bridge, notably its angle of approach to Route 26 and its narrow width.

The road from the bridge joins Route 26 at an angle that make it easy to head north to Bethel, but difficult to turn right toward Locke Mills.

"It's dangerous. It needs to come out at a right angle to Route 26," said Littlefield.

Selectman Jack Cross agreed

'If there's a car sitting on the bridge and I'm coming home from Bethel with a chip truck behind me, it's kind of hairy.'

DICK LITTLEFIELD
Commenting on the narrowness of the Rabbit Road bridge about the difficulty of the right turn, especially for a piece of heavy equipment such as a plow truck.

"It can't be done safely," he said.

Littlefield also said the current bridge is dangerously narrow.

"If there's a car sitting on the bridge and I'm coming home from Bethel with a chip truck behind me, it's kind of hairy," he said.

The bridge is also lower than Route 26, he noted, and in winter that can make plow berms yet another safety problem.

The selectmen agreed to meet again Wednesday, Oct. 26, to begin reviewing any proposals Cole is able to obtain.

Until the bridge problem is resolved, the only route for heavy vehicles in need of reaching the Littlefields, or the two other residences on their side of the bridge, is across land owned by Hancock Lumber and Chadbourne Tree Farms.

CEO hours changed

NEWRY — The office hours for Rich St. John, Newry's code enforcement officer, have changed from Wednesdays to Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to noon at the Town Office. St. John now serves on the state's Plumbers Examining Board, which meets on Wednesdays. St. John, who also serves as Bethel's CEO, will be available at the Bethel Town Office on the Wednesdays when he is not at board meetings.

Sunday River watershed meeting

NEWRY — The public is invited to a meeting to discuss current and future restoration plans for the Sunday River on Wednesday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Sunday River Inn in Newry. The meeting is sponsored by the town of Newry and the Maine Department of Environmental Protection. Starting in the 1990s, Sunday River residents voiced growing concerns about increased stream bank erosion and new channel cutting. The river tore through a once-productive hayfield. Several camps had to be relocated away from the rapidly eroding banks. The fishery declined. Residents, local businesses, town and county officials, and state personnel conducted surveys in the Sunday River Watershed in 2000 and 2002. Wide-spread erosion was determined to be a major culprit in destabilizing the river and destroying fish habitat. The surveys led to cooperative erosion control work by a variety of partners. Also, river professionals were brought in to conduct a detailed river assessment in 2003. Since 2003, there has been a lull in restoration activities. The Oct. 26 meeting will bring together the major players: watershed residents, local businesses, town and county officials, state personnel; to discuss regaining, and sustaining, momentum to restore the Sunday River Watershed. Items on the Oct. 26 agenda include the timeline for erosion control efforts, and plans for large-scale stream restoration activities. Attendees will brainstorm ways to keep the momentum going. Coffee, juice, donuts and fruit will be provided. Participants might want to bring a lunch. For more information, call Jeff Stern at 583-2723 or e-mail him at jmsstern@prexar.com.

Otten wins golf innovation award

BETHEL — A golf simulator and analyzer developed by Les Otten has received a new product innovation award from a leading industry magazine. Otten, currently vice chairman of the Boston Red Sox and founder and former CEO of the American Skiing Company, founded Sports Vision Technologies in Bethel and assembled a team of scientists, engineers and golfers to help him develop the P3ProSwing, a golf swing analyzer and game simulator. Touted as the most affordable swing analyzer on the market by Otten, the P3ProSwing was recently included in Golf Tips magazine annual GT Tech Awards that recognizes the latest advancements in golf equipment technology, new product innovations and a commitment to exceeding consumer demands. According to the magazine, the award "represents the finest in its category among many whose notable achievements have pioneered golf equipment and technology to new and exciting heights." There were just five products that made the list and the P3Pro was awarded in the category of Training Aid Innovation. The P3Pro has been lauded at various industry trade and consumer shows across the country and previously earned a "Highly Recommended" rating from Golf Digest magazine. It was also featured on Live with Regis and Kelly in a segment with avid golfer and celebrity Cheryl Ladd.

Craft fair relocated to Telstar

BETHEL — The annual Craft Fair usually held at Crescent Park School will be hosted this year in its new location at Telstar Regional Middle/High School, on Saturday, Nov. 5 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Face painting, food concessions, baked goods, balloons, and raffle tables will continue as in years past. Craft Fair proceeds will support special activities, events, and scholarships at Telstar middle and high schools. Spaces are still available and may be reserved by calling Pat at 824-0547 or email thornton@megalink.net.

Lights On Afterschool event

BETHEL — The Mahosuc Kids Association will join 7,500 other communities nationwide by participating in the sixth annual Lights On Afterschool event Oct. 20 and 21. The nationwide event calls attention to the importance of afterschool programs and the resources required to keep the lights on and the doors open. The Mahosuc Kids Association is a recipient for the first annual Maine Afterschool Network's 2005 Lights On Afterschool Exemplary Afterschool Program Award. The award was scheduled to be given as part of the statewide Lights On Afterschool event during the Governor's Summit on Afterschool Oct. 19 in Augusta. MKA has been offering afterschool programs since 2001, in partnership with SAD44 schools and the University of Maine Cooperative Extension. MKA currently has a total of 275 children enrolled in programming in Andover, Woodstock, Crescent Park, and Telstar Middle schools.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Monday, Oct. 17

At 12:45 p.m. Chief Alan Carr was advised to be on the lookout for a vehicle that had just left an Albany location. There was an arrest warrant for the driver. The vehicle was stopped on Lovers Lane, and Joan Ward was taken into custody. She was taken to South Paris by a state trooper.

At 1:10 p.m. Chief Alan Carr responded to the East Bethel Road for a 911 hang-up call. A child was playing with the telephone.

Sunday, Oct. 16

At 12:30 a.m. Officer Travis Fillmore was asked to try to intercept a vehicle traveling north on Route 26 from Woodstock. The vehicle had failed to pay for gas in West Paris. The officer stopped the vehicle for a defective tail light. A warrant for one of the passengers was discovered. A state trooper arrived, and the driver was told to return to pay for the gas. The trooper took the subject with the warrant into custody.

At 3:06 a.m. Officer Travis Fillmore discovered a vehicle had left the road and struck a tree on Route 2. The driver, alone in the vehicle, refused medical care.

Saturday, Oct. 15

At 1:04 a.m. Officer Buddy Richard took a telephone report of harassment.

At 1:29 a.m. Officer Buddy Richard responded to a report of a driver operating under the influence. Brian Goodrich was arrested on the Flat Road for violation of conditional release.

At 7:59 p.m. Sgt. S.R. White and Officer Travis Fillmore stopped a vehicle on Elm Street for a moving violation. Robert J. Laux, 56, was arrested for OUI.

Friday, Oct. 14

At 2:50 p.m. Officers Phil Taylor and Travis Fillmore responded to a Route 2 business for a property damage accident in the parking lot. A driver had struck the bumper of a tractor trailer.

At 11:20 p.m. Sgt. S.R. White and Officer Jack Taylor arrested Crystal H. Smith, 21, on Mechanic Street for operating with a suspended registration and permitting unlawful use.

Thursday, Oct. 13

At 12:58 a.m. Officer Travis Fillmore and a state trooper responded to a Mason Street residence for a reported argument. One subject was found to be in violation of conditional release. Amber Tuck was arrested.

Wednesday, Oct. 12

At 10:50 p.m. Officer Travis Fillmore took a report of telephone harassment.

Tuesday, Oct. 11

At 8:35 a.m. Chief Alan Carr received a report of a motorcycle in a ditch on the Intervale Road. It was taken to the town garage by the Highway Department.

At 4:35 p.m. Chief Alan Carr and Officer Phil Taylor responded to a two-vehicle property damage accident in front of the Town Office.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summons in the 10 days prior to the newspaper's publication, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

Hall

Irons went to the Ski Maine Association and made that case, noting that the state had such halls for baseball, football, golf and other sports.

"If you added up all the people in all the other sports, it wouldn't come close to the number of skiers [worthy of recognition]," said Irons.

There have been Maine skiers in every Olympics since 1948, he said, and more than 30 Mainers are alumni of the U.S. Ski Team.

First class

The Maine Ski Hall of Fame inducted its first 10 members in 2003.

They included Wendall "Chummy" Broomhall, the first Olympian from Maine; Otto Wallingford, who invented a powder-making machine at Lost Valley that "revolutionized ski area grooming," Irons said; and Aurele Legevre, an international ski jumper who kept the sport alive at Black Mountain, helping local jumpers pursue collegiate jumping careers.

In 2004, two Bethel area residents were inducted: Donald Cross, of the family that founded Mt. Abram, and the late Paul Kailey, a jumper from Berlin, N.H., who was a ski coach at Gould Academy and one of those instrumental in establishing Sunday River Ski Resort.

This year's class of inductees includes, in addition to Bethel's Bob Remington: Karl Anderson, the first alpine Olympic skier from Maine; James "Jimmy" Jones, who formed the state's first Ski Patrol in 1936, and was long-time patrol leader at Pleasant Mountain; and Theo Johnsen, an historic figure who in 1905 wrote the first ski book in North America. Johnsen also sold skis and equipment from a store in Portland.

"There are many ways to qualify for the hall," said Irons, but the common quality among inductees is that they have "devoted a great deal of time and a large part of their lives to skiing in Maine."

(Note: There are three Bethel-area residents on the Maine Ski Hall of Fame Committee: Rik Dow, Wende Gray and Remington's former co-coach, Tim LaVallee, who is currently GSR program director at Gould Academy.)

the mid-1960s. He competed in cross-country and jumping for Gould, whose teams were always near the top of the heap among the half-dozen western Maine schools that had ski teams in that era.

Competitions took place when each school held its Winter Carnival. There were four events - jumping, cross-country and alpine slalom and giant slalom. Many skiers competed in more than one event.

The top two teams in the state meet went on to the New England championships. Gould was a frequent participant. Remington captained the Huskies as a senior in 1967.

After graduation, he went on to the University of Maine (Orono) and competed in the same events for the UM ski team. It was there he learned a skill that would also serve him well later, as a coach.

Orono is not known for significant snowfall. So the team was often forced to plow what snow there was into an oval track shape to allow the racers to practice. "It was good preparation for dealing with no snow," he said.

Remington's best event was cross-country, but his last-minute participation in the jumping event in 1970 helped UM win the state college championship. He placed second against skiers from Bates, Bowdoin and Colby.

But, he notes, "there was nothing I did as a competitor that would have gotten me into the Ski Hall of Fame."

Telstar skiing

That came in the next phase of his ski career. After graduating from college, Remington returned to Bethel to teach math and coach at Telstar.

Through much of the 1970s and 1980s, Remington combined with coach Tim LaVallee to lead the Rebel boys' and girls' teams to several state championships. Early on, the two coached the girls and boys separately. Later, they focused on their respective specialties, cross-country and alpine, for both teams.

Some years, Remington found himself putting his 'no snow' expertise to work plowing up a practice course for his teams on Telstar's upper athletic field.

Meets were held at Telstar, with the skiers racing across the athletic fields and on logging roads in the nearby woods. "I spent hours and hours trying to keep something going out there [by clearing on the logging roads]," he said.

Through the years, Remington kept a vision of a high-quality cross-country race course on Telstar property.

Finally, in the early 1990s, he worked out a deal to have new trails cleared of trees and excavated by a contractor, in exchange for the sale of the wood.

The result: a five-kilometer trail that other teams eagerly came to race on and, in some cases, emulate at their own schools.

The course is also the site of the annual Telstar Relays, a race originated by Remington in 1979. The Relays now draw more than 300 racers a year. "I always said it was the biggest ski event in the state that nobody knew about," he said.

Remington retired as Telstar ski coach in 1998.

In looking back over his coaching career, he said two of the more memorable seasons for him were 1978, the year the Telstar boys first won the overall state championship, and 1984, the year the boys never won a meet all season.

The 1978 team included such members as Mike Rosenberg, Steve Cross, Mike Brooks and Russell Palmer.

It's apparent why Remington would particularly remember that first championship. Why, then, was 1984 also memorable?

"We didn't win a race all winter long, and Fryeburg Academy didn't lose a meet all year," he said. But when the teams got to the state meet in Madawaska, the Rebels nearly beat Fryeburg for the championship. Remington said it had been his practice to alternate his coaching focus each ski season. One year the team would concentrate mostly on technique, the next on conditioning. 1984 was a technique year, so through most of the season they lost races because of lack of endurance.

But by the end of the season, the cumulative time on skis had greatly improved their conditioning, allowing them to nearly catch Fryeburg.

"There were some pretty anxious people adding up the scores," he remembers.

Win or lose, said Remington, he has always found some satisfaction in each ski season. "The good thing about coaching skiing was we always felt we won. There was always something you could grab onto," he said, whether it was a team accomplishment or an individual one.

Individually, 1980s cross-country skier Virginia Kelly stood out for Remington. She excelled, qualifying for the Junior Olympics and finishing in the top five nationally.

Changes in the sport
Skiing has changed significantly over the years, most notably, said Remington, in the area of technology. Improvements in equipment, wax, and trail grooming have greatly improved skier performance.

"Years ago we said, 'Hit the wax, hit the wax. If skiers didn't wax right, they couldn't move,'" he said. "But now, even if it's not the best [wax job], they can usually do pretty well."

The other big change is the trend toward skiers specializing in the disciplines instead of competing in several events. That, said Remington, has taken its toll on team unity.

"The team concept is gone. There's too much 'ski for me' now," he said.

Still, cross-country skiing athletes will always be special for Remington, who is also a long-time Telstar baseball and soccer coach.

Maybe, he said, it's the skiers' work ethic, driving them to build endurance and skills under the harshest of weather conditions. "They've really got their heads screwed on straight," he said.

Gould

Their son, they said, was "an excellent student who was well-liked by his peers and by the teachers and other faculty members at Gould Academy."

But from nearly the first day Erik arrived at Gould Academy, they said, he had been harassed, intimidated and threatened by the student he eventually hit with the skateboard.

The student shared a suite with Erik and a third student.

From very shortly after the beginning of the school year, his parents claimed, Erik and they "made repeated requests and complaints to a variety of Gould officials to try to bring an end to the harassment, intimidation and threats to which he was constantly subjected to" by the other student.

The Formellas claim that "on a number of occasions [they] were told by representatives of Gould Academy that they were aware that Erik was in an extremely difficult living situation, and that Gould Academy was working toward a plan to end the ... threatening and harassing conduct."

The other student's conduct, the Formellas claimed, "was in direct violation of ... Gould Academy's own code of conduct."

But "the teachers and administrators at Gould Academy nevertheless allowed the continued harassment, taunting, and threatening of Erik Formella to continue unabated until Nov. 8, 2004. Gould Academy never took any steps to remedy the problem," according to the Formellas.

On the evening the incident took place, they claimed, the other student followed Erik into his room, "while verbally harassing and insulting him, and in a reaction to this threatening and abusive conduct, Erik Formella picked up his skateboard which was at hand and struck [the other student] to fend off his threatening and intimidating conduct."

Erik was expelled from Gould Academy, "despite the fact that he had an unblemished record for more than two months," the Formellas said, and Gould refused to refund any of the $25,700 they had paid in tuition (Erik had received an additional $8,000 in financial aid).

In March the Formellas sued the school for breach of contract and unjust enrichment.

One third of the $14,500 they eventually settled for will go to their attorney, leaving them with $9,667.

While Gould officials declined to comment directly on the case, Associate Head of School Dutch Dresser did release the following statement:

"We at Gould Academy are saddened by the loss of any student; however, we take seriously our responsibilities to protect and set proper standards for all our students. The school respects the rights of privacy of all of its students, including former students; so we will refrain from commenting on either the matter leading to the named student's departure from the school in 2004 or the settlement reached between the school and the family."

"The school's policies on harassment and tuition refunds are clearly articulated to all students and their parents at the time of enrollment and are carefully followed in the operation of the Academy. When paying tuition, parents are advised that the school cannot make refunds resulting from withdrawal or dismissal and are encouraged to take tuition refund insurance to ensure partial refunds should circumstances warrant. Parents may opt to assume all risk by not taking refund insurance."

Time Extension for Resource Plan

Protection Zone (P-RP)

For the White Mountain National Forest

The Commission is seeking comments on the request for a time extension of the Resource Plan Protection Zone currently in effect for the White Mountain National Forest in Maine. The USDA Forest Service has requested an extension on the zoning which expires in December 2005. Under this zone, the Forest Service's Land and Resource Management Plan supersedes LURC's Comprehensive Land Use Plan and zoning standards within the national forest. The Forest Service is not required to obtain permits from the Commission for activities on its lands in Batchelders Grant, Mason, and Albany Townships provided its activities comply with the Management Plan.

well. It was a good week. On Tuesday, we saw everyone we ever knew, being Senior Citizen Day. The Rev. Dick Hamilton and wife, Helen, former Bethel Methodist minister, wanted to be remembered to all friends back in Bethel. There was no parade on Saturday due to rain. It was only the second time that had happened.

Mason Street is having a new look. The Alta Meserve house has been raised with new foundation and new siding.

Twenty-five ladies from the Congregational Church helped Jan Stowell celebrate her birthday at breakfast recently.

Orlando Fraser of Vadalia, Ga., visited his mother, Doris Fraser, the week of Fryeburg Fair. While here they visited Buster Williamson at Rehab, also cousins in Lancaster, N.H.

Carol Neilson has returned to Cocoa Beach, Fla., after spending the summer with Amy Davis. She stopped at Lancaster, Pa., to visit relatives.

A group visited the Autumn Fest at Indian Head, N.H., on Monday. Bud and Mary Paine, Martha Sweett, Rosabelle Tift, and Arlene Walker joined the Senior Citizens from Mexico.

Brent and Shelly Douglass and daughters have moved to their new home on Songo Pond.

Mike Brown has returned to his winter home in Florida.
News from Mayville by Don Bennett:

On Thursday, Oct. 13, Sunday River Farm was pushing ahead to finish potato digging before the expected rains (that came later) on Friday. David McCrum, the owner, told me that he had raised approximately 210 acres of potatoes in Bethel this year. The varieties of potatoes raised are called Andover's, Atlantic's and a special variety named Priority. Altogether these three varieties are known in the trade as "chippers." The two main buyers of Sunday River Farm's potatoes are Frito-Lay in Connecticut, by far the largest buyer, and Wachusett Potato Chip Company in Fitchburg, Mass.

Potato digging has changed radically in the last 60 years. In 1945 I remember seeing maybe as many as 40 people, women, kids and immigrant labor, picking up potatoes by hand and tossing them into large wooden barrels. Chester "Chet" Ladd owned the farm in those years. The loaded barrels would be lifted and swung on to flat bed trucks much the same way lobster traps are lifted into boats. Some members of the picking crew were Cubans; at least one man from Cuba that I remember, a really congenial guy, returned to the Ladd Farm every year.

Last Thursday there was one truck, two machines and two tractors handled by four men, one being the owner. Of course, there are more trucks with drivers on the road. Heavy rain on Oct. 7, has probably wiped out a two-acre strip of potatoes next to the Irving Station. On Friday, the digging was finished before the weekend rain came.

One day last week, Kathy and I opened our front door to find a sunshine squash on our front step. As yet we have not learned who the donor was. We appreciate it very much. If you have not tried them you will find they have a very mellow flavor that goes over well in soup and as just plain old baked squash.

History of Mayville by Don Bennett:

Who named Mayville, Mayville? People have asked Kathy and me, because of our Mayville news items in The Citizen's Bethel column, where Mayville got its name. Good question. At this point I can trace use of Mayville as a place name back to 1869. In 1869, The Oxford Democrat newspaper listed the 2nd Congregational Church as located in Maysville (that may have been a typographical error and was meant to be Mayville?). In 1871 the same paper listed the location clearly as Mayville. There are two possible theories of how Mayville's use as a place name originated: the corn theory and the mayflower theory.

So, first, the corn theory: I am not sure at this point what the early settlers called corn. (Columbus did not know about corn at all.) Was it corn or maize? North West Bethel, specifically the old Chapman Homestead farm contained a pre-Sudbury Canada Indian corn site. The Indians' "maize-land" could have become "maize-ville" as a local figure of speech, then Maysville, and later evolved into Maysville, then Mayville.

In Bethel history we are told that the discovery of Indian corn was a very pleasant surprise. Corn was an important settlers' staple from the very beginning. In the 1860s, raising sweet corn was a major enterprise in "Mayville" and throughout this western section of the Androscoggin valley as well. In the early 1870s farmers wanted to get a corn packing (canning) operation going. And they did, although it was a New York company, Wolff and Reesing Company that came up with the actual factory.

The mayflower theory, though, is a stronger one: There were mayflowers growing in Mayville during the 19th Century. (These plants like the acidic soil found near pine trees.) The mayflower link goes like this: Mayflower comes from the name of the Pilgrims' ship. The plants later called mayflowers (trailing arbutus) grew abundantly around Plymouth Rock at the time the Pilgrims landed. The Mayflower is now the state flower of Massachusetts. So you can see, therefore, that the symbolic nature of the flower can be recruited to signify a special place. That special place in Bethel was the seat of the 2nd Congregational Church, Rev. David Garland the pastor, combined with the residences of members of the 2nd Congregational Society from 1848 onward. The church building was situated between the present Norseman Inn and the Briar Lea, the ground zero of Mayville. (Later, some of the church's timbers were used in the Hanover Dowel Co. mill building.)

Going back a step further, when Dr. True wrote the first history of Bethel in the 1859 to 1861 period, he referred to the "Mayville" area as the "north side of the river" using language from an interview with Deacon George Chapman. This Chapman came to Sudbury Canada in 1789 with his father, Rev. Eliphaz Chapman, who later suggested the name of Bethel. Although William Lapham's "History of Bethel" has 23 index references to Mayville, they are all used in 1890 to describe a person's place of residence. (As for instance Samuel B. Twichell lived in Mayville.)

Correspondents writing local news for The Oxford Democrat in the 1880s routinely used Mayville to describe the area down river from the Chapman Homestead farm (now a gravel pit above Walter Clark's house) and up river from the mouth of the Sunday River. North Bethel began at Swan's Corner. On the other hand, the 1880 maps of Oxford County do not single out Mayville as a village of Bethel and on the overall map of Bethel you had to have a post office to rate a name: West Bethel is named, but East Bethel is not, no post office; South Bethel is named, it had a post office.

On July 30, 1979, Arthur Eldredge, born in 1911, of Mystic, Conn., wrote to Stanley Howe about his Bethel experiences. He wrote: "(I) was always given to understand that my mother Ruby Clark (Eldredge) named the district called Mayville; was given to understand she named it after the mayflowers that were growing in Mayville?" Ruby Eldredge may have introduced the second coming of Mayville into public use, but newspapers show that she was not the first to use that name.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
The ugly weather for the last five days kept most of the natives confined to quarters. The only folks straying from the fireside are out there checking on boats and docks in the very high lake. The Dead Cambridge River has taken tsunami proportions and Stony Brook opened with a roar. Walter Stanczyk has measured over five inches of rain as of Monday morning, and it's still raining!

The Ladies Aid held their Christmas Craft and Bake Sale Saturday in spite of the torrential rain. A few hardy souls braved the elements to shop and enjoy a cup of coffee with the ladies. Simone Lavallee provided her wonderful raised doughnuts. Other members contributed high-calorie, conscious-bothering sweets. No one was in a hurry to leave and brave the storm. This sale will be continued on Oct. 22 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. "Rain, rain, go away, come again some other day."

Bird hunting season is open, but there are very few takers due to the inclement weather. The lake is quite high, discouraging the ducks since feed isn't available.

Maya Taylor and Lily Lavallee are the newest (honorary) members of the Ladies Aid. Even though they are barely two years old they never miss a meeting. We would appreciate more young members; however we expect them to be older.

The Red Hatters from Errol, Upton and Magalloway will hold a tea at Joan Bean's house in Magalloway. I hope she has a big home because she is going to have a lot of "Crazy Ladies" attending.

The new school bus schedules for Upton are quite tiring for the young children. The bus leaves at 6:15 a.m. when it is pitch dark. The winter should prove quite difficult for the parents, children and John Aron, the bus driver.

Barbara and Clyde Stratton have returned from their sojourn in Italy. They said the food was superb but the transportation was pretty difficult. Barbara was able to meet up with relatives that she had never seen before. A walled fortress town held many hospitable relatives, offering good wine and good food. Weight gain was a problem to be forgotten. Barbara did quite well in spite of her broken leg. How do you say "Pegleg" in Italian?

Sue and Larry Nelson visited family in Rye, N.H., over the weekend. Driving was pretty difficult in the rain.

The little moose has not been seen since the moose hunting season opened. He is either smart and hiding, or not smart and is in someone's freezer for the winter.

In spite of the bad weather, we have been visited by many birds. They are drenched, making you wonder how they can fly. The suet feeder is the target.

We have not put our birdseed out yet, since there are a lot of plants bearing seeds. The "Bird of the Week" is one of Ginny's favorite birds, the tufted titmouse.

Don't forget the Christmas Craft and Bake Sale will continue Saturday, Oct. 22, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh

It's hard to believe we're in the second half of October, and we've had no killing frost as yet. We certainly have had an abundance of rain, however. As of 9 Monday morning, our third weekend of deluge had yielded 5.15 inches of rain, according to the rain gauge at the Hoehstead. I'm sure that others may have measured more (or less). The streams are swollen, but so far the only place I've heard of flooding is a section of Meadowbrook Bridge Road on Saturday.

Thankfully, as I write this, the sun is making repeated attempts to break through the cloud cover while the wind gusts continue. We lost power on Sunday from about 6 a.m. to shortly after 9 a.m. We assume that the wind caused something to hit a power line. Because of said wind, a great many leaves have fallen, with the result that the woods are once more opening up. Unfortunately for the leaf peepers, there really hasn't been much color this season.

Helen Cooper had Molly Siegel for a sleepover on Saturday night, and the girls were undeterred by the wet weather. They spent a good deal of time outdoors, including walking knee deep on the Meadowbrook Bridge Road during Saturday's downpour. On his Sunday morning walk with Jake, Mike was startled when, after Jake began running in circles on the bridge, two heads appeared from under the bridge. No, it wasn't trolls, just Helen and our granddaughter Molly, who had been examining the rushing waters. (They were duly reminded that this was not the greatest activity in which to be engaged.)

The birdfeeder has been a hotbed of activity. We have an abundance of chickadees, a plethora of juncos, a scatter-

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

I'm one of those people who always seem to lose things, car keys, eyeglasses, telephone number, and my purse. You name it and I've probably lost it, but out of all the things I've lost, I miss my memory the most.

Seriously, I used to have a great memory. I used to remember all the important dates in history. I never had any trouble recalling names even if I barely knew the person. Friends and family could always count on me to remember birthdays and anniversaries. I was the one people depended on to remember all the important things. Now I can't even begin to remember all the things I have forgotten.

In the last 10 years or so, I have gone from a person with a very sharp memory to a little absent minded to somewhat forgetful to can't remember anything. I now refer to my memory in the past tense.

What really drives me crazy is when I try to remember something, and know that it's floating somewhere in my brain. I can feel it there, I can almost pull it out, it's right on the tip of my tongue, but then I forget what it is that I'm trying to remember.

It really annoys me when I encounter someone who starts a conversation with me and I know I know them just as well as I know my best friend, but I can't for the life of me figure out who they are. I keep hoping for a clue in the conversation that will spark my memory and pray that they don't ask a question that I would know the answer to if only I could remember who they are.

I was starting to feel like there was something very wrong with me because of all these memory lapses until a very dear friend of mine, who's name I can't remember, told me she was concerned for her mental health because she was having a real memory problem. Let me tell you, it makes it really hard when two old friends get together and start to reminisce about old times, but neither can remember any.

Anyway, now where was I? Oh, yeah, it hit me that if she, being about the same age as me, was having trouble with her memory too, maybe there was nothing wrong with either one of us. Maybe it's this aging business!

... out of all the things I've lost, I miss my memory the most.

I've already accepted the fact that I'm not as young as I used to be, nor as quick and agile as I once was and if I try to be it's going to hurt. I've conceded to the fact that my eyesight isn't as keen as it used to be and I should probably wear my glasses most of the time if only I could remember where I put them most of the time. I know my body will never regain the shape it once had, but I had never considered that my brain, that trusty dictator of my thought process, would age right along with the rest of me.

The idea of my gray matter getting old and gray prompted me to check the medical books to find out how much time I had left to remember who I am. I was very much surprised at what I read; that is, what I can remember of it.

Now, let's see...oh yeah, as it turns out, the cerebral function outlasts everything else, which doesn't give me a great deal of comfort when I consider how rapidly everything else seems to be diminishing. Sight, hearing, taste and one's sense of smell all fall by the wayside long before the brain checks out. Even if we lived long enough to lose all our senses we would still be able to think; if only we could remember what we wanted to think about. Now that is a great comfort.

Interestingly, extroverted people don't lose their memory quite as rapidly as introverted people. Maybe I should have been more of a social butterfly than I was. But being a gad-about would have only helped a little. Apparently everyone starts losing short-term memory around 30 years old and the decline continues from there. The good news is that by the age of 60, one has four times the information stored in the brain than they did at 21. The bad news is that they can't remember most of it. The mixed news is that menopausal women lose their memory a little younger than men, but they regain some of it after menopause whereas men, once they lose it, it's gone!

So there we are, in our old age with more facts in our head than an encyclopedia and we can't remember how to get to it. The fault of that, however, lies with the rest of the body going to pot and is no fault of the brain, i.e. the heart slows down and less blood and oxygen gets to the brain.

As if to make up for the memory loss, the brain does become more active with age. For example, an infant sleeps an average of 20 hours a day. Then the sleep requirement drops to 13 hours, and then 9 hours as a teenager in spite of the fact they seem to be able to sleep around the clock. Then we only need about 6 hours of sleep by age 40 and 5 hours or less by the time we reach 65.

It may be our body's way of telling us when we get older to ease up on the sleep and spend more time enjoying life.

I'm glad I read up on this subject because it's a relief to know that when I hide Christmas presents and can't remember where I put them, it is a natural process that everyone experiences sooner or later. I really do feel better knowing when I can't remember someone's name, there is a chance they can't remember mine either.

The way I see it...now, what was I talking about?

ing of red-breasted nuthatches and purple finches, and an occasional white-throated sparrow. I thought I saw a pine siskin the other day, but it came and went too fast for a positive identification. Here's one for the books — Mike saw a great blue heron standing right in the middle of the Flat Road, just downstream of our house. We know they've been busy eating up little brook trout, but what was this one doing in the road where there wasn't even a puddle?

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met at the Pleasant Valley Grange last Wednesday. They were served a wonderful New England corned beef boiled dinner by the Grangers. The food and fellowship were enjoyed by all. The Grange will have a meeting today, Thursday.

Speaking of fellowship, the West Bethel Union Church had a Fellowship Supper at the church on Saturday night. Now that the season of public suppers is over, the church members have once more resumed their monthly potluck get-togethers. Jane Hosterman relates that this practice arose from a wish to enjoy each other's company during the cooler seasons. She allowed as how it was a very nice thing to do on what was a raw, rainy night.

"What's for dinner?" Ever hear that question around your home? Local resident Brenda Emmett, a veteran cook, is starting a business aimed at providing an answer for skiers, vacationers, or anyone who would like someone else to cook for a change. She will do everything from buying the groceries to planning the menu, preparing the meal, and cleaning the kitchen afterward. She also will cater small functions and dinner parties.

Brenda spent a number of years cooking in restaurants and during the last ten years was with one family as personal chef and household manager. When I asked how she got started, she replied that she had always wanted her own restaurant, but putting kids through college made it unfeasible to do that. And so she settled on being a personal chef. The business is called "What's For Dinner?" (what else?).

Brenda noted that her mother is currently visiting from Arkansas and can't wait to get away from this "cold" weather. Brenda, however, is looking forward to enjoying snow. By the way, Brenda's pies will soon be available for sale at the County Store.

Mike and I attended the Public Theatre in Lewiston on Sunday afternoon for a performance of "Deathtrap," billed as the "longest-running comic thriller on Broadway." It was full of laughs, surprises, and unexpected plot twists. While there we met up with Bruna and Jack Piccin of Gilead and Jackie and Al Cressy of Bethel. All agreed it was a most enjoyable production.

Thirteen inches of snow on Mt. Washington! Just think what we would have had here if the temperature had been twenty degrees lower! It will come, soon enough. 836-3011; dhoe@megalink.net

There's not much to write about this week except rain; rain and more rain.

When I spoke to my brother, Steve McLain, to see if he had anything for the column, we decided that not too much had been happening because of the weather. His son, Brad McLain of Newry, was over to help his dad do some work around the house and in the garage. They couldn't do anything outside. I told Steve that the red potatoes from his garden, that he brought up to us, were delicious.

Hugh's brother, Bill Lord, called to let us know that they had returned home safely to Phoenix, Ariz., after their visit here. They had a great time attending Bill's 50th reunion at Gould Academy. After they left here, they spent some time in New Hampshire visiting Bill's daughter and family.

We had a call from Hugh's sister, Mary Lou Berry of Newry, and she has just recovered from the flu. She sounded pretty good and hopefully, she is on her way to feeling a lot better.

A special meeting of the Planning Board is scheduled

Mahoosuc Land Trust

The Mahoosuc Land Trust has recently moved its office to the U.S. Forest Service building at 18 Mayville Road. MLT is expanding and now has a full-time director and a part-time volunteer coordinator. Pictured are, from left, volunteer coordinator Ginger Kelly, director Jim Mitchell and supporter/volunteer Ken Bohr. MLT is currently working on three major conservation projects: White Cap in Rumford/Andover; Buck's Ledge in Woodstock; and the canoe launch site in Gilead.

for Oct. 25 in the Town Hall, beginning at 7 p.m., to consider a recently submitted application. The next regular scheduled meeting is on Nov. 3 at the Town Hall beginning at 7 p.m. Applications should be submitted prior to the meetings, if possible. There are presently two openings for membership on the Board. Please contact Jack Pucak at 836-2729 for information.

Gilead Historical Society

Just a reminder to anyone who is interested, that the GHS is doing a cemetery tour on Oct. 29. We will meet at the Town Hall at 1 p.m. The tour is open to anyone who would like to get a little bit of local history.

Maybe the rain will stop someday soon and people will get out and about and have some news. Give me a call at 836-2987 or e-mail chapmal@hotmail.com.

Over the Columbus Weekend the Barrys from Cape Cod were here and were able to view the lovely paint work that had been done on the outside of their place. They are snowmobile riders and are here often during the winter trail-riding season. I also noticed residents at the Eames' home, even got a wave as I tooted while driving down the Branch Road.

The turkeys are still around. Carol and I watched them Saturday morning as two were gobbling away and running back and forth across my yard. They were looking for the other five they usually travel with. I did notice all seven were together as I went up to Sandee and Leon's to pick the last of their lettuce.

Tim and Carol Small drove over from Orrington on Friday evening for a visit. We had a wonderful time together and didn't even mind all the rain. We enjoyed being in with a nice fire going in the living room. Tim finished a small painting he had started on a kayak trip early in the week, while Carol made a puzzle as I did some knitting and making apple crisps.

On Wednesday, Sandee and Leon Dunn were out clearing trails on that great weather day. They had planned to go today, but the winds are too strong especially with all the branches that will be falling. They, along with other WVSC members, will be out clearing trails soon again.

Congratulations are extended to Retta Berry and Ed Powers who were married recently in an outdoor ceremony.

Don Gray cut a huge tree on his front lawn. He cut the stump in the form of a two-tiered seat or plant holder, or what is it? I know Parker has returned from Chili, as I saw him and his sister walking up to the bridge that crosses Bear River to his home. He is now at the Killington Mountain School in Vermont for the winter at his new job as a ski instructor.

Over Columbus Weekend, Keith Bartlett, Dick Clark, Leon Dunn and Brad Wight were moose hunting in the South Arm area. I do believe it was Dick who shot the only moose taken.

Happy Birthday to Gilbert Seeley on Sept. 24.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. How are you these nice fall days? Enjoy them while you can. They will not last.

Molly Nelson did quite well recently in the Oxford County Fair Horse Show, getting a couple of firsts, seconds and a few thirds. Her horse, "Side-tracked," was well behaved.

Kitty and Dale Nelson have been enjoying vacation this past week. Dale went on a backpacking trip in New Hampshire, going from the Twin Mountain area to Lincoln Woods. He pretty much had the mountains to himself mid-week. I guess the weather was just about perfect. Dale is getting close to achieving his goal of climbing all of the 4,000-foot peaks in New England (36 of the 48 as of August). They got a little work done around the house and then they went to the Fryeburg Fair.

A play that Matthew Nelson wrote has been chosen to be produced and performed at the Emerson College Theater in Boston. Opening night is Nov. 4.

We were saddened to hear that the gymnasium/auditorium at Fryeburg Academy was destroyed by fire recently. We have fond memories of our children and grandchildren performing in sports and theater productions there.

Dale and Kitty Nelson have a new cat named "Ziggy." They have to keep him in at night as there are a lot of owls and coyotes around over there.

Sharon and Howard Berman and Nowal and Iona Hunnedy and Nardia and Zane from Belmont, Mass., were in town for Fryeburg Fair and stayed at Evergreen Valley Inn. They had dinner Sunday with Albert and Eleanor Nelson. They also got some nice Maine apples from a local orchard. Sharon even made us an apple pie for dinner, which disappeared really fast as it was so good. Thanks, Sharon.

Molly and her dog, "Phinney," called on us on Saturday. Katie enjoyed her canine visitor.

Waterford-Stoneham Lions Club will be having supper and meeting at Bear Mtn. Inn on Oct. 20.

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 will meet at the K. of P. Hall here in Stoneham on Oct. 26.

A lot of changes and building has been going on here in Stoneham.

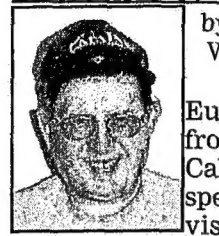

E. Hatstat was taking down trees at the former Berman property recently, making way for a new septic system to be installed there. The new owners are Matt and Erika Fitzgerald.

Many new houses have been built and are being built in the Bartlettsboro area.

Loretta Andrews is still in the Maine Medical Hospital in Portland. I have not talked with her lately but I am sure she would appreciate cards.

Everett Andrews was here splitting some wood for Al-

Eugene Fortin from Lathrop, Calif., recently spent the week visiting his parents, Bob and Elsie Fortin, and his sister, Darlene Fortin.

James and Judy Ray, along with Donna and Clem Worcester, went to Norway last Friday and enjoyed a fine meal at the Trolley House.

For the second weekend in a row, heavy rains pounded our area. Streams rose to high levels and the Androscoggin River spilled over its banks. The water level in Howard Pond got deep enough to run over the dip on the South Shore Road. Due to high winds on Sunday the electric power was off for an extended time in portions of Hanover.

Ann Wheeler from Austin, Texas, has been enjoying several weeks at her Hanover home, known as "The House on the Hill."

The Hanover annual Town Meeting will be next Tuesday, Oct. 25, at the Hanover Town House on the Howard Pond Road. Voters will be asked to take action on the town budget as well as the school budget. A number of town offices will be filled with nominations from the floor. Two vacancies will be filled, both for two-year terms, one for the position of selectperson and the other for superintending school committee. During the meeting it is expected that the Volunteer of the Year will be announced. It is also expected that Superintendent of Schools James Hodgkin will be available to answer questions about school issues.

Bill and Gail Worcester spent last weekend with Daren and Fran Worcester in Hooksett, N.H. Bill and Daren got busy and put down a new floor in their home.

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb

This has been a week of rain. The leaves are falling before they turn bright red.

Hopefully, the wells are full for the winter. The water district is busy laying new water pipes along Main Street before the road is rebuilt next spring. It was surely a blessing when the town put in the water system about 25 years ago. Before then my well went dry every summer. With six children to care for with showers and dishes and washings it was difficult.

West Paris did have a laundromat then but that required a lot of time and quarters. We got "city" water to Trap Corner when Ledgeview was built on Route 26. Modern is much better than "the Good Old Days."

The two large buds on the Easter lily finally opened and I took it to church. Most thought it was a silk one.

The oldest great-grandson, Joshua Hyssong, celebrated his 6th birthday with a party. He is the son of Nina and Rob Hyssong of Westbrook. Joshua designed the birthday cake and his mother decorated it. It was in the form of a castle. Many relatives were present to help him celebrate. Florence McLaughlin, Melvin Young and I attended from West Paris.

At the West Paris Universalist Church on Sunday, Oct. 23, the Rev. Kate Braestrup will be the speaker. Jim Burke is organist. The service starts at 9 a.m. and is followed by a coffee social hour.

The Fall Sale at the Universalist Church will be held on Oct. 22 at 9 a.m. in Goodwill Hall. There will be fancy work, food, white elephants and hand-dipped chocolates for sale.

On Thursday, the crafters met at the home of Beverly Stevens and made many centers of different flavors to be dipped in chocolate next Thursday. Those working were Beverly Stevens, Peg Perham, Cynthia Lamb, and Joyce Lamb.

Goodwill Fellowship will meet on Monday, the 24th, at 6 p.m. at the home of Eleanor Inman for a potluck supper and meeting. Plans will be made for the 99th Chicken Pie Supper to be held on Nov. 17 at the West Paris Universalist Church.

Buffy was up behind the garage because a new, large tiger cat has come into the neighborhood. They have been getting along well so far and I hope it continues. He is too lame and old to protect his territory any more.

The mornings are cool again. It is refreshing when it isn't raining. The weekend rainstorms were a little much. I know it wasn't the flooding they had elsewhere, but still, a little less rain would have been okay, too.

After working in the rain all weekend, we still had those who wanted to come to the transfer station after hours. Once more, the regular hours are in effect until Memorial Day. They are: Tuesday and Thursday 12 to 4 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday do not change. It is only the Tuesday and Thursday hours that differ.

On Oct. 20 another author will be at the Norway Library at 7 p.m. She is the author of several mystery series for adults and children. For more information call the library at 743-5309.

Nov. 8 thru 15 is Maine Recycles Week. Plan an event at your school or place of business. Our area is doing well in recycling, but there are still those who don't. Help bring them into the fold.

Waterford Library is holding book discussion groups again. On Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 10:30 a.m., they will discuss Jane Austen's "Sense and Sensibility." Then on Nov. 23 they will talk about "Pine Barren" by John McPhee.

The Waterford Firemen's Auxiliary will hold a supper on Nov. 5 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Town Office. Check in for more details next week.

On Oct. 22, the Waterford Grange will hold a Bake Sale and Flea Market. The Grange is on Valley Road (Route 35) just up from Melby's. There will be pumpkin cookies, bread, donuts and pies. There will also be gourds, cornstalks and pumpkins on sale. Proceeds will go to renovate the Grange Hall.

That night there will also be a supper at the Alder River Grange in East Bethel. That one will serve beef stew. It begins at 5 p.m. They are always well attended so get there early.

Waterford/Stoneham/Albany/Mason Transfer Station again had 11 cardboard bins. Thanks to all who made that happen. We are doing great. That is even with the downpours when no one wanted to recycle you did it anyway.

As I said last week, the Transfer Station Committee is meeting the 18th, so I will have a report next week.

Have a great week. Get your costumes ready.

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. Autumn has hit with much rain and cooler weather, and the enjoyment of the mountainous views colored in great swaths of reds, oranges and yellows. Autumn certainly is a gorgeous season!

We want to thank everyone for their well wishes and prayers. Please keep Brenda in your hearts and prayers as she continues on. The family needs those prayers, too, as we continue as well.

Church services are Sundays starting at 9:30 a.m. I'm not sure if youth group is still going on, but I would imagine it is. If you're interested, give Holle Corriveau a call and she can get you much more information.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., choir practice at 5 p.m., evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. is prayer meeting and Thursday morning is ladies prayer time.

Monday, Oct. 10, Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War held inspection at the Grange Hall with a 6 p.m. supper. Eight members and four guests were in attendance. National President Lesley Dean and PNP Gail Butterfield and two members from Stoneham tent were there. Lesley said if we had any flags to be retired the American Legion at Oxford are having a ceremony on Nov. 27 at 4 p.m. She also told of a trip she and her mother took on D.U.V. business that took them 3,000 miles.

The Daughters are again collecting items for Christmas stockings to be sent to our soldiers in Iraq. Twenty-eight calls were reported. Sally Sawyer received the mystery package along with Gail Butterfield and Marilyn Jones. Starting in November they will meet at the home of Alice Hoyt for the winter. Next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 14.

Sunday, Beatrice Farnum, Ken and Alice Hoyt, Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover joined a family party at John and Leatrice Chase's. Crystal, Aric and Kaylea Beane have been here from Alaska. Others attending were Althea, Robert Stevens, Keith, Jenny and Danny, Andrew, Rhonda and Liza Chase, Richard, Teresa, Mike and Hunter Chase, Irene Beane and her mother, Arlene and John Greenleaf, Sandra and Scott Withey. Crystal, Aric and Kaylea returned to Alaska on Monday.

The Woodstock Elementary School P.T.A. will hold their annual Craft Fair on Saturday, Oct. 29, at the school. The times are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Breakfast, lunch and food sale, crafts, etc. Come help them. Tables to rent are $10 each. For more information call Missy at 665-2211.

Sympathy is extended to the Bonney family in the loss of their son and brother.

At the Historical Society's October meeting, Curator Larry Billings gave a brief program on George Allan England. England graduated from Harvard, Summa Cum Laude and eventually got his Ph.D. there. He was a friend of Jack London and stayed at Hemingway's home in Key West. He tutored Franklin Delano Roosevelt and was Socialist candidate for governor of Maine. He lost.

During the meeting, President Olive Risko appointed the following committees: Building, Paul and Vicki Billings and Ken and Don Hoyt; Finance, Annella Burnham, Joyce Howe and Olive Risko; Research, Olive Risko, Ruth Cox and Elaine Roberts; Refreshments, Mary and Vicki Billings. Members will take turns doing programs.

Larry and Paul Billings noted the dehumidifier was working well. Larry got a nice book on Abraham Lincoln. Also, the people at the Round Pond Corner Store gave him a very old photo for the Historical Society. It shows the back of the Jim Billings' house, now gone. He gave it to his mother to put in a notebook for the society. Larry gave eight more books to the society. The Historical Society Museum is especially strong in the area of decorative arts. The fourth annual Craft Fair will be held Oct. 29, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Woodstock Elementary School on Rumford Avenue, Bryant Pond. Tables are $10 each. There will be a silent auction and 50/50 raffle. Breakfast and lunch will be available. For more information, contact Missy Wakefield at 665-2211.

A plaque in memory of Bruce Thurlow is given each year to a 4-H member at the Oxford County Fair for the best pair of working steers. This year's plaque was earned by Seth Bell. Congratulations! I've heard it is a very nice plaque that is presented.

Claribel Poland has been a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital, and is now at Norway Rehab Center. Hopefully she'll feel better soon.

What a beautiful home that is being built on Curtis Hill Road. It has red siding and is owned by Ryan and Brandy Seames. Lots of luck to both of them.

The leaves here have been extra beautiful this year. The recent rain has taken a lot of them off but there's still plenty left to enjoy.

I'm still having problems using my new computer. I have never felt so dumb in my life.

My sister, Dotte Critser, is coming along quite well after the many operations. Dotte lives in Tempe, Ariz., and we keep in touch by phone.

Happy anniversary, Oct.

17, to my sister and husband, James and Evelyn Dunn.

My cat, Daisy that was reported missing is now home. She was gone for two weeks and came to our door Wednesday as if she'd never been gone. I was so happy to see her; she was just fine.

During the time Daisy was missing I got another cat at the shelter in Norway. It is a gray cat named Shauner, who is three years old. We also already had another gray cat named Suzi. Needless to say they don't all get along as they should yet.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that at the October meeting he spoke briefly on local author George Allan England. President Olive Risko appointed her committees. Paul and Vicki Billings volunteered to do the November meeting program. Larry and Paul reported the new dehumidifier is working well.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that if I don't try new things, I won't learn new things."

From the Bethel Wastewater Treatment Facility

The Town of Bethel's Wastewater Treatment Facility is pleased to be hosting an Open House with tours for the public on Saturday, Nov. 5, from 9 to 11 a.m. Co-sponsored by the Androscoggin River Watershed Council (ARWC) through its new Androscoggin Watershed Institute, this special event is one of several open houses being held that day at wastewater treatment facilities along the Androscoggin River in Maine and New Hampshire. Everyone is invited to come to the treatment plant at 199 Main Street. Find out what becomes of your wastewater after it leaves your home, and learn about the important treatment steps it must go through before being discharged as clean water into the Androscoggin.

"Many people are surprisingly unaware of what becomes of their household sewage and other wastewater once it flows down the drain," notes ARWC director Chuck Knox. "For homes located in population centers like Bethel, the wastewater is carried by sewer lines to a nearby municipally owned treatment plant. There, the wastewaters are specially treated through a very remarkable process."

"Indeed, it is a surprisingly fascinating process that involves several key steps," Knox commented. "Thanks to plant manager Rob Gundersen and his group of well-trained operators who carefully oversee each treatment phase, raw sewage is transformed into clean effluent that meets stringent federal and state standards before being released to the river."

As most people are now aware, the Androscoggin River, like other waterways across America, has improved dramatically in recent years. This is due in no small part to municipal wastewater treatment plants, many of which were built as a result of the 1972 Clean Water Act. (Interestingly, this act was sponsored by someone who grew up along the Androscoggin in Rumford, former U.S. Sen. Ed Muskie, whose vision of water quality restoration led to this milestone legislation that transformed our nation's waterways.) In Maine and New Hampshire alone, over two billion dollars has been spent on building dozens of new treatment facilities across these states. Raw sewage that once found its way into the Androscoggin, for example, causing great harm, is now captured and piped to facilities where it is thoroughly cleaned.

"This is truly a remarkable environmental success story," observed Knox, "and the upcoming tours of the Bethel facility are designed to help people see for themselves how pollution control operations have been playing a crucial role in these river improvements."

The Bethel treatment plant is located on lower Main Street next to the school bus garage.

If you wish further information, feel free to call the facility at 824-2105 or ARWC at (603) 466-3433.

From the Oxford County Republicans

Nate Walton, a Bates College history major and chairman of the Maine College Republicans, was the featured speaker at the Oxford County Republican Committee monthly meeting held at Franklin Grange 124 in Bryant Pond on Oct. 11.

Representing 23 chapters and over 2,000 Maine college students, Walton outlined some of the efforts of the group in fighting for academic freedom at Maine colleges and high schools long dominated by liberal Democrats who believe that only their point of view should be heard and vigorously deny access to points of view that they oppose. "The Maine College Republicans," said Walton, "promote conservative values on Maine's college campuses by bringing conservative speakers to campus and fight to ensure that students of all viewpoints receive the best higher education possible."

"The college/university should," he added, "be a marketplace of ideas where different viewpoints are discussed and students formulate their own opinions on the best conclusions, not a forum for certain ideologies' indoctrination of young minds."

Walton also went on to pledge his organization's commitment to work very hard to ensure the election of a Republican governor and Legislature in 2006.

Following a bountiful Grange dinner, Oxford County Chair Erlon Jones conducted a short business meeting. The booths at the Oxford County and Fryeburg fairs were very effective. There were many compliments and a number of passerbys expressed pleasure that unlike the Democrats, everything at the Republican booths was free.

Chairman Jones also announced that Oxford County

Commissioner Albert "Jim" Carey would soon be resigning and that at the November monthly meeting in Norway, there would be a County Caucus to name a successor. The governor is empowered to appoint a successor and the one named by the governor must be a member of the party currently holding the seat. Since Carey is a Republican, any nominee for this seat named by the governor must be a Republican.

Jones also announced that a committee is needed to make plans for the annual Lincoln Day Dinner in February and he would welcome volunteers to be named at the November meeting.

He introduced all members of the Executive Committee present and those officeholders, including Tom Winsor, Oxford County Register of Probate, Rep. Arlan Jodrey (R-Bethel) and Rep. Bruce Hanley (R-Paris).

The next meeting was announced for the Congregational Church in Norway on Nov. 15.

From the Bethel Lions Club

The Peace Poster information has been brought to the Middle School and hopefully this year there will be a few students participating in the contest.

The Bethel Lions will be at the Bethel Foodliner on Oct. 21 to hand out information on "White Cane Day."

Our meetings are at Cross Roads Diner & Deli. Meeting times are the second and fourth Tuesday of the month, the time is 6 p.m.

If anyone is in need of eye care, please call Ed Friel at 824-2107.

From Western Mountains Senior College

"The desire for love and sex never dies, it just changes as you get older," claims Wendy Iseman who will present a workshop at the Aging Well community conference on Saturday, Oct. 29, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Crescent Park School in Bethel. "Youth culture dominates the media making it difficult for people to understand that older people are sexual beings too," Iseman added.

Iseman said people assume that older adults don't have an interest in sex and they are very wrong. Recent studies by AARP show that most people over age 50 have a strong interest in sex. Difficulties lie in finding a partner if one is a widower or divorced, or if chronic illness interferes with two people having a relationship.

Iseman, who currently serves as director of public relations and development for Maine Handicapped Skiing at Sunday River, has had much experience working with sexuality issues. She served as a social worker in New York City for a number of years working with adults who had chronic lung disease. She said sexuality issues were a big part of a client's concerns. "Most of the people I worked with were over age 55 and still wanted sex to be part of their lives even with a chronic illness," she added. Iseman has also had an opportunity to discuss sexuality and aging issues with Shirley Zussman, her aunt in New York City, who, at age 91, is still a practicing sex therapist.

Join Iseman and twelve other speakers at the Aging Well conference, which is co-sponsored by Western Mountains Senior College (WMSC) and SAD44 Adult Education.

There will also be a number of exhibits to help registrants "find their passion" and a luncheon buffet catered by Good Food Store. At the conclusion of the conference, names of all attendees will be entered in a drawing for several outstanding door prizes.

Friends from the business community who donated prizes include the Balsams Grand Resort Hotel, Dixville Notch, Sunday River Ski Resort, Mt. Abram Family Resort, Bethel Inn and Country Club, and Betsey Foster, Tai Chi and Qi Gong instructor.

Registration is $25 or $20 or WMSC members. To register, obtain more information or inquire about scholarships, call the Adult Education Office at 824-2780.

From the White Mountain National Forest

Cool fall temperatures and the forecast for a break in the weather entice us to head for the great outdoors. A word of caution before you head out for that hike.

Heavy rains have flooded several roads and trails on the White Mountain National Forest. Unpaved roads are soft and reports are continuing to come in about high water in ditches, hazardous trail crossings and slippery rocks. Hikers should be prepared to treat any bridge crossing with extreme caution.

High winds have caused both trees and limbs to fall. Heavy rains have also softened soils, making standing trees more susceptible to blowdown.

Further, hikers should be aware of the hazards created by trees that are leaning on other trees or objects. In these conditions, even standing trees can fall with little or no warning.

Plan ahead and let someone know where you will be. Be aware of your surroundings, and alert to changing conditions. Forest Supervisor Tom Wagner cautions, "I want everyone to be aware of higher-than-normal water conditions in our streams and rivers and the dangers associated with trail crossings and recreating near water. Rocks are slippery and currents are swift."

For more information or to report any unusual situations, contact any White Mountain National Forest visitor center or go to: www.fs.fed.us/r9/forests/white_mountain/.

From SWOAM

The Small Woodland Owners of Maine (SWOAM) will hold a Landowner Conference at the Augusta Civic Center on Oct. 22. The focus of the event will be to raise public awareness of the importance of small woodland owners and all that they provide to the economy, environment and society in general. Hundreds of landowners are expected to gather to share expertise and help small woodland owners become better equipped to face the challenges of owning forestland.

There are more than 100,000 small woodland owners in Maine, people who own between 10 and 5,000 acres of forestland. The 100,000 landowners own more than six million acres, or 40 percent of Maine's woodlands. Each year, Maine's small woodland owners generate more than 40 percent of the wood that is used in Maine's forest products industries. In addition, Maine's small woodland owners play a critical role in the protection of important wildlife habitats, provide the public with numerous recreational opportunities, and maintain much-needed open space.

The Woodland Owners' Forum will offer a diverse lineup of presenters on such topics as the future of the forest industry in Maine, public use of private land, and the impacts of development on land ownership and use. In addition, there will be subject experts on topics such as estate planning, taxes, management assistance, wildlife management and many other topics.

Tom Doak, executive director, SWOAM, says "Most people do not realize that small woodland owners own nearly 40 percent of the woodland in Maine. Those lands contribute so much to what makes Maine a special place. Maine's small woodland owners are the stewards of some of the most important woodlands in the state, but small woodland owners face many challenges including public misuse of the lands, complex land use regulations, high taxes and pressure from development. We hope to increase public awareness and appreciation of all the benefits, including the outdoor recreational opportunities, woodlot owners provide. We hope that when a person uses a small woodland owner's property or drives by a nice woodlot adorned with fall colors, they will remember that someone is caring for this land."

Registration is $20 per person and includes lunch, refreshments, free gifts, door prizes, access to the entire program and a copy of the 36-page "Small Woodland Owners Handbook-A Guide to Owning and Managing Woodland in Maine."

From Oxford Hills AARP

The Oxford Hills AARP group is participating in three trips — the first is the day trip to see "The Magic of Christmas" Dec. 16. Unfortunately, all the seats are sold out. If you would like to be put on the waiting list, call Henrietta. The second trip, April 5-7, is to Quebec City for three days, two nights. This will be a most enjoyable trip with a side trip to St. Anne de Beaupre, a most beautiful basilica and to Montmorency Falls, which is higher than Niagara Falls. The highlight of the trip will be a Sugar Shack Party where there will be lots of good food, laughter, and lively music. The cost is $330/per person double with a $50 deposit due now and the final payment is not due until Feb. 20, 2006.

The third trip is to most beautiful Prince Edward Island, July 6-10, 2006. You will cross the new engineering marvel, the Confederation Bridge that connects New Brunswick with PEI — a feat that they thought could never be accomplished because of the extremely high, powerful tides, currents, and winter winds and ice floes. There are several interesting activities during the five days on the island including a narrated luncheon cruise to see a variety of wildlife. You will also see a great theater show about Anne of Green Gables, so well-known on the Island. On the return we will stop in New Brunswick to see the famous Hopewell Rocks. The cost is $577/per person double with a $50 deposit due now and the final payment is not due until April 28, 2006.

To answer your questions, there is absolutely no problem for you to get into Canada — you need two forms of ID — a birth certificate with a raised seal and a driver's license or picture ID if you don't have a license. A passport can also be used. Passports are not required for entry into Canada until January 2008. There is no problem going through customs — especially on a tour bus. Your information is checked in advance so that going through customs is very simple.

Several people have already signed up for these trips, so if you are at all interested, you should call Henrietta (743-6722) very soon to put your name on the list and then send your $50 deposit to Walter Taft, 1024 Gore Road, Otisfield, ME 04270. Cancellations can be made up until the final payment date.

Everyone is welcome to join any of these trips — you don't have to be an AARP member. We also welcome everyone to our friendly AARP meetings, second Monday at noon at the First Congregational Church, South Paris. The meetings are very informative and interesting. We recommend the delicious dinner served by the church women for a modest fee or you can just come to the meeting at 1 p.m.

From Western Oxford Foothills Cultural Council

The Western Oxford Foothills Cultural Council, also nicknamed WOF, is going to hold a raffle at the Oxford Showcase to raise money to promote The Gallery at Maine Wildlife Park in Gray. The Gallery had its first season this past summer, and it was so encouraging organizers are ready to do some advertising.

"Everyone who visited was impressed by the quality of the work," says The Gallery's curator, Pat Chandler.

"And they really loved visiting the wildlife park," adds Toni Seger, founder of the cultural council which sponsors The Gallery.

"It's a unique partnership," says Seger, "and people have responded very positively to it."

Raffle items offered at the showcase will be three different prints by Persis Weirs, a nationally known wildlife artist whose work is universally admired by other wildlife artists. Raffle tickets will be $5. "We think a $5 ticket that gives you the chance to win a beautiful original print by a revered artist is going to be pretty attractive to people attending the showcase," says Seger. "These prints would look great on both an office wall or in any tasteful home," says gallery curator Pat Chandler. "Weirs paints wildlife with such conviction. She knows her subject in every detail."

The showcase will open as a business-to-business trade show on Friday, Oct. 28, and follow that with a public day on Saturday, Oct. 29.

The WOF Cultural Council table will also display the work of Steve Catanese of Paris Hill Pewter. "I love his earrings," says Seger. She adds that she will be wearing her favorite snowflakes at the showcase. "They catch the light

From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibition, "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon" will close in Bethel on Saturday, Oct. 22, at 4 p.m. In honor of this final day, Don Cyr, director of the Musée culturel du Mont-Carmel in Lille, project scholar for the Maine Humanities Council's portion of the Maine barn exhibit to accompany the Smithsonian Institution's traveling "Barn Again!" exhibition and a Ph.D. graduate student at the University of Maine (Orono), will be the featured speaker on this final day beginning at 2 p.m. in the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center's O'Neil Robinson House.

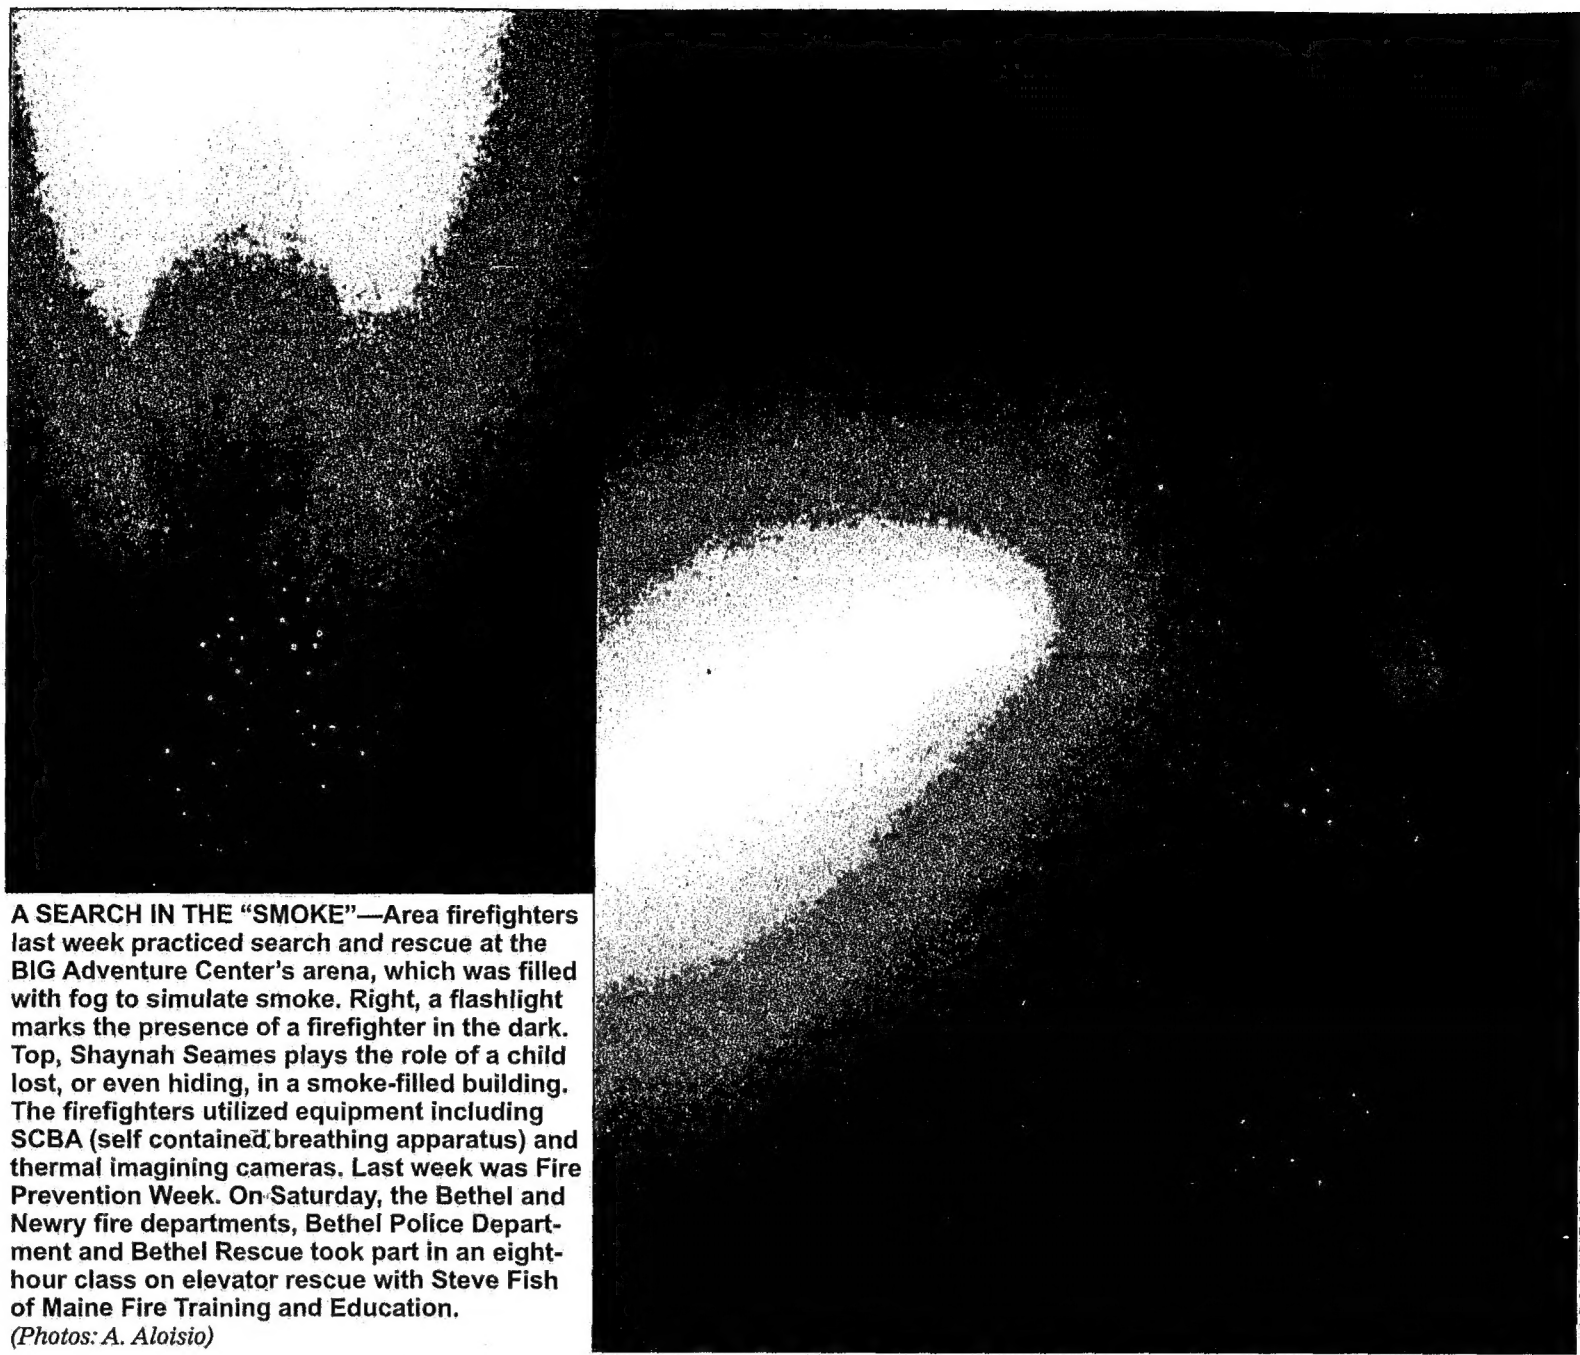

Speaking on Aroostook County barns, he will present a slide lecture presenting details of various examples in "the County" and compare and contrast them with those in the rest of the state. Cyr's appearance is sponsored in part by a grant from the Maine Humanities Council. The lecture is free and open to all interested persons. Refreshments will follow the lecture.

A number of special events have accompanied this Smithsonian exhibition sponsored in part by a grant from the Maine Humanities Council. They include the opening on Aug. 19 with special star "Piglet" present, courtesy of Pooh Corner Farm, a presentation on the architecture of Maine barns at the society's annual meeting on Sept. 8, with another appearance by "Piglet," the barn tour and dance on Sept. 17, the harvest supper and Maine humorist on Oct. 8, and a photo presentation by noted historian William Bunting on Maine barns at Pleasant Valley Grange on Oct. 13.

The Maine Humanities Council presents Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon, an exhibition organized by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (ITES) and the National Building Museum with the assistance from the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Barn Again! is a registered trademark owned by the Meredith Corporation and the National Trust for Historic Preservation. This project was made possible through the generous support of the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation and the Hearst Foundation. Additional funding has been provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Smithsonian Institution Special Exhibition Fund, and the Smithsonian Educational Outreach Fund.

With over 1,200 members, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most

A SEARCH IN THE "SMOKE"—Area firefighters last week practiced search and rescue at the BIG Adventure Center's arena, which was filled with fog to simulate smoke. Right, a flashlight marks the presence of a firefighter in the dark. Top, Shaynah Seames plays the role of a child lost, or even hiding, in a smoke-filled building. The firefighters utilized equipment including SCBA (self contained breathing apparatus) and thermal imaging cameras. Last week was Fire Prevention Week. On Saturday, the Bethel and Newry fire departments, Bethel Police Department and Bethel Rescue took part in an eight-hour class on elevator rescue with Steve Fish of Maine Fire Training and Education. comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations. For nearly 40 years, the society's activities have included lectures, exhibits, special events, heritage festivals, workshops, conferences, school and educational programs, and publications.

TWO CERTIFIED AS 'RESORT PROPERTY SPECIALISTS' Matthew Hiebert and Thea Beaudoin, both of Mahosuc Realty in Bethel, were recently certified as Resort Property Specialists by the National Association of Realtors.

This in-depth credential is given to realtors with extra expertise and knowledge needed by those who specialize in second homes, investment, vacation and other resort-related properties, according to a prepared release from Mahosuc Realty.

Hiebert and Beaudoin both focus primarily on the core essentials of assisting customers and clients in a tourist-driven area and a second-home market.

Now thru October 23rd

A Beautiful Way To Save Energy.

Patio doors take a lot of punishment—from installation to daily usage to the burning sun and freezing rain. If your patio door has taken all it can handle, consider Andersen® patio doors, which save energy and look great doing it in the heat, cold, rain or shine.

THE LOOK OF AUTUMN—The Parent Volunteer Committee of Telstar Middle School recently decorated around the outside of the school with flowers, pumpkins, corn stalks, ribbons and bows donated by area businesses. This display is outside the TMS office door. (Photo: A. Aloisio)

Service notes

SGT. JENNIFER A. STOWELL
Air National Guard Tech. Sgt. Jennifer A. Stowell has graduated from the Air Force Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Tyndall Air Force Base, Panama City, Fla.

Stowell is a satellite communications technician assigned to the 267th Combat Communications Squadron, Bourne, Mass. She is the daughter of Aline C. Dupont of Portland and the stepdaughter of Gordon D. Crockett of Greenwood. The sergeant graduated in 1990 from Telstar Regional High School and earned a bachelor's degree in 1994 from the University of Alaska, Fairbanks.

School Lunch—Week of Oct. 24

Tuesday: Hot turkey and gravy, bread, peas, cranberry sauce, brownies, fruit, milk.
Wednesday: Meatball sub, potato chips, fruit, milk.
Thursday: Spaghetti/meat sauce, corn, fruit, milk.
Friday: Chicken melt, chips, tossed salad, fruit, milk.
Served Daily: salad choice, pizza choice, cold sandwich.

SAD44 Elementary Schools Lunches

Monday: Teriyaki chicken/bun, green beans, salad bar, fruit, milk.
Tuesday: Macaroni and cheese, carrots, biscuit, salad bar, fruit, milk.
Wednesday: Sausage links, mashed potato, peas, salad bar, fruit, brownie, milk.
Thursday: Chili w/beans, crackers, corn bread, salad bar, fruit, milk.
Friday: Turkey and cheese sub, salad bar, fruit, milk.

High School Boys' Varsity Soccer

Mt. Valley 3, Telstar 2; Oct. 12— Telstar's Louis Thornton and Max Meader scored for the Rebels in a loss to Mt. Valley. Goalie Stephen Scotti had six saves.

High School Boys' J.V. Soccer

Telstar 0, Dirigo 0; Oct. 6— Telstar played extremely hard to shut out Dirigo at Dirigo. Kevin Gallagher and Terry Gordon stepped in from the varsity team to fill spaces due to injured players. The whole team made an excellent effort to win. Andy Whitney and Alex Gundersen shared the shutout in goal, making some great saves. Telstar JV came back and tied after a loss of 2-0 to Dirigo on Sept. 19.

Telstar 1, Mt. Valley 0; Oct. 12— After a tie of 2-2 on Sept. 21, Telstar came back to win over Mt. Valley. Telstar's Chris Schwarz scored the only goal, unassisted, in the second half. It was a well played game with Andy Whitney and Alex Gundersen in goal and a great team effort by all. The season closes at 1-4-6.

High School Varsity Field Hockey

Telstar 6, Dirigo 0; Oct. 12— Telstar's Mallory Brown scored three goals, Liz Rosenberg two and Tara Lunney one in a win over Dirigo. Telstar outshot Dirigo, 31-0.

High School Boys' Cross-country

Mountain Valley Conference Championships at Augusta, Oct. 15—Telstar did not have enough runners to place as a team. Individual finishers (winning time 17:14): 38. Lance Brown (21:35); 56. John Lewis (22:37); 68. Will Chapman (24:26); 70. Mat Lauro (24:42).

High School Girls' Cross-country

Mountain Valley Conference Championships at Augusta, Oct. 15—Telstar's Jen DeNormandie finished second as the Rebel team placed second in a field of 10 teams at the MVC Championships. Individual finishers (winning time 21:55): 2. Jen DeNormandie (22:04); 4. Brianna Bailey (22:11); 13. Bethany O'Neil (23:43); 21. Katlyn Keane (25:08); 27. Kim Lauro (26:00).

TMS Varsity Soccer

Telstar 1, Livermore Falls 0; Oct. 11— After a tie of 2-2 on Sept. 22, Telstar came back to win over Livermore Falls. The only goal was scored by Michael MacKnight, assisted by Peter Cowen. Darren Jodrey had a shutout in goal. Telstar dominated the game with a strong offense and defense effort allowing only 1 shot on their goal. A great game was played by all with excellent coaching by Greg Luetje.

Telstar 0, Jay 0; Oct. 6—Telstar played an excellent game against Jay on Oct. 6 at home, coming back from a 3-2 loss at Jay on Sept. 20, to tie 0-0. The game was dominated by Telstar offense with excellent efforts by goal keeper and defense to make the shutout.

TMS J.V. Soccer

TMS 4, Oxford Hills 1; Oct. 18—TMS concluded their season by defeating Oxford Hills at home. On a rainy day with sloppy field conditions the young Rebels played superior soccer. Daniel Vaughn and Josh Bonney continued their superb play in goal. The scoring was led by two goals from Danny Whitney, both assisted by Tyler Brown, and one goal each from Austin Jodrey and Sam Hartzell with his first of the year. Super efforts also by Jeb Clarke, Samantha Southam, Nicena Walker, Andrew Sprague, Jared Rice, Devin Vail and Casey Thornton. The team ends their season in an unbeaten 11-0-1. Congratulations to all of the Core, Blue and White JV players on a wonderful season. Thank you to all of our devoted fans for their home and road support all year long. —coach Mark Kenney

TMS 3, Livermore 1; Oct. 11— Daniel Vaughn and Josh Bonney did an excellent job in goal. The Rebels peppered the goal with over 20 shots, 3 hitting off the crossbar and 2 off the post. The Livermore goalie made some unbelievable saves, denying several TMS players a goal. Goals were scored by Danny Whitney, Devin Vail, and Austin Jodrey, who tallied his first goal of the season that counted for his team. Assists by Jeb Clarke, Danny Whitney and Tyler Brown. An unbelievable team effort by every member. — coach Mark Kenney

Youth Football

Greenwood 22, Jay / Livermore 20, Oct. 16 (3rd and 4th grade)— The Spartans' defense played a spectacular game and Josef Holt ran for over 200 yards on a cold, wet, muddy Sunday for the team's first victory. Holt returned the opening kick 55 yards for a score, giving the team its first lead of the season. Holt would later run for a 25-yard TD and a 35-yard TD but none was more exciting than his three-yard run for the two-point conversion. With just over a minute left in a tie game, Holt ran through the left side to give Greenwood a two-point edge. J/L got the ball back on the 50-yard line but the Greenwood defense insured victory by stopping them on four plays with Holt, Dave Pilgrim, and Zack Wheeler coming up with big tackles. Wheeler had his breakout game with 4 solo tackles and assisting on many others. Dave Pilgrim playing his first game at linebacker had 8 tackles. Kevin Goodrich, despite being placed against J/L's best blockers still managed four tackles plus assists and Holt led the team with 14. Every boy got in on at least one tackle and the defense only allowed one gain longer than 15 yards. It should be mentioned that the team was missing four players and most of the boys played the entire game on both sides of the ball. The fifth and sixth-grade game was postponed due to poor field conditions.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
KEY TO GOOD TENANT RELATIONS
It is important to attract and keep great tenants when you own investment property. A good way to begin a positive tenant/landlord relationship is with clear communication about what you expect from your tenants and what they can expect from you.
The written lease agreement spells out the legal obligations of each party - the landlord must ensure that the property is habitable and complies with local codes, and the tenant must pay the rent in a timely manner and not damage the property. Make sure that the terms of the agreement are stated clearly in straightforward language.
Let the tenants know of your commitment to keep the property in good repair and of your desire to know about the little problems before they become serious. When it's time for the tenants to move, offer to provide a reference letter if they need one. This is a nice way to say "thank you" to them for having maintained the property during the terms of their lease. Good communication can help you to maintain the quality of your investment.

Obituaries

EOLINE F. BEAN

Mrs. Eoline F. Bean, 71, died Wednesday, Oct. 12, 2005 at the Rumford hospital. She was a resident of the South Rumford Road.

Born in South Rumford on May 16, 1934, she was a daughter of John and Arlene (Holland) Rowley. She graduated from Stephens High School in Rumford with the Class of 1953.

She was formerly active in several area bowling leagues including the Wednesday night and Tuesday morning leagues. She was also active in the Dixfield American Legion Cribbage Tournaments.

She was married in Rumford on Aug. 1, 1953, to the late Roland D. Bean, who died in Lewiston on July 14, 1997.

Card of Thanks

I cannot possibly find the words to describe the love and support my family gave to me during my recent illness. I owe special thanks to Margo, my brother Keith, my son Todd and his wife Nikki, my son Ryan and his wife Candace and my daughter Kate for the incredible job they did moving me from Auburn to Bethel while I was in the hospital and being there for me through the tough time. Thank you to all my family and friends who sent me cards and kept me in their thoughts and prayers. I am living proof that the power of prayer and caring people is a very powerful thing. Thank you to the Bethel Ambulance for a job well done, it is comforting to know they are a phone call away. My grateful thanks to the Bethel community who so generously help people in need, it helps lift a great burden. I am a very lucky man and it sure feels good to be back home. From my heart,

Craig Davis

Survivors include a daughter, Catherine Cyr and her husband Ernest of Spokane, Wash.; three sons, Michael and his wife Heidi of Milton Plantation, Matthew and his wife Debbie of Andover, Christopher and his wife Laureen of Milton Plantation; two sisters, Lee Perry and her husband Thomas and Jackelyn Schaffer and her husband Thomas both of Tennessee; one brother, Harold Rowley and his wife Nancy of Peru; 10 grandchildren; and one great-grandson. She was predeceased by a brother, John Rowley.

Funeral services were held Friday, Oct. 14, at the Meader & Son Funeral Home, Rumford, with Pastor Kelly Harvell officiating. Interment was in the Abbott's Mill Cemetery in Rumford. Those who desire may contribute to the Androscoggin Home Health Care and Hospice, 100 Weld Street, Suite B, Dixfield, ME 04224.

A Note of Thanks

How can we thank you for all the kindness shown to our family during this most difficult time. We would like to thank everyone for the cards, flowers, food, phone calls, and many hugs. We would also like to thank Ledgeview Living Center for the wonderful care they gave to Mom the last six months. We rest assured that Mom is in a better place even though there will be a big void in our lives. Without the support of friends and family, the pain would have been harder to bear. So thank you from the bottom of our hearts for easing our pain.

ERLON F. McALLISTER
Erlon F. McAllister, 73, of Waterford, died Friday, Oct. 14, 2005 at Maine Medical Center, Portland.

He was born on Aug. 8, 1932, the son of Winfield and Edith Crouse McAllister and was raised in Waterford. He attended Bridgton Academy.

He faithfully served his country in the U.S. Marines during the Korean Conflict. He was stationed in Japan.

He had been employed by R.K. Brown and Callahan Brothers as a heavy equipment operator. He then retired from the town of Waterford, where he served 24 years as road commissioner.

He enjoyed hunting, fishing and farming. He loved spending time with his family and friends at the Brass Rail.

He married the former Merle Allen on Feb. 19, 1955.

He is survived by his wife, Merle of North Waterford; two sons, Fred and his wife Laurie of North Waterford, and Keith of North Waterford; two daughters, Beverly McAllister of Kezar Falls, and Gloria McKee of North Waterford; six grandchildren; a great-granddaughter; two brothers, Eugene and Lawrence, both of North Waterford; and many nieces, nephews and cousins. He was predeceased by a brother, Irving; and a sister, Sue Littlefield.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, Oct. 19, at the North Waterford Congregational Church, with interment following at Woodlawn Cemetery in North Waterford. Donations can be made to the North Waterford Congregational Church, c/o Judy Green.

RICHARD F. WILLIAMSON
Richard "Buster" Frost Williamson, 86, of Upton, died Oct. 17, 2005.

He was born on Dec. 25, 1918, to Esther and Harry Williamson in Newry.

He lived on the beautiful Lake Umbagog for most of his life. He lived productively as a Maine Guide for more than 40 years, a selectman, member of the Planning Board and Upton school board member. He served his country in the Merchant Marines in World War II.

He was a woodsman and truly loved caring for his woodlots in Sunday River and Upton. Part of that love made him a steward of his land. Together with his wife and sister, Phyllis, he gave the Mahoosuc Land Trust an easement on 133 acres at Sunday River and an easement to Audubon Society of New Hampshire on 100 acres along the shore of Umbagog Lake. He wanted to make sure that the land would be protected from development and remain "forever wild."

He and his wife ran Birch Point Camps on Umbagog Lake for 10 years.

He enjoyed gardening, picking berries and smoking fish, and loved to share this bounty with friends, often giving away more than he kept and visiting longer than it took to do the harvesting. In the past few years, he and special friend and buddy Dick Angvine of Upton enjoyed fishing and hunting. He taught his friend the fine art of beaver trapping.

In his semi-retirement, he spent his summers on Lake Umbagog and winters in Lake Wales, Fla., fishing and visiting with his family and friends. Seeing him with his wife, children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, relatives and friends was a privilege.

He is survived by his wife of 60 years, Virginia "Ginny"; daughter, Diane Williamson of Upton and Augusta; his sisters, Phyllis Stevens of Oxford and Doris Fraser of Bethel; granddaughter, Pamela Johnston and husband Rhori, and children Piper and Seaver of Indiana; granddaughter, Michele Bouchard and husband Rick and children Cameron and Keona of South Carolina and Auburn; grandson, Richard D. Williamson of South Carolina; brothers-in-law, Nelson Hood of Auburn and Raymond Moulton of Kennebunkport; a daughter-in-law, Johanna "Joni" Williamson of Eddington; and several nieces and nephews. His son, Dwight, predeceased him on July 8.

A celebration of his life will be held at Lake Umbagog at a later time. If so desired, contributions can be made in Buster's memory to the Maine Lung Association or Trout Unlimited.
